The execution of Ovro Laurus, the boy fiend, is a gratifying item in to day's news. Whenever a boy or girl has committed acts of a particularly devillable character the tendency of a wrong sympathy is to feel that, being so young, they can not be held fully responsible for their conduct. This is wrong, and the hanging of this boy for a brutal murder is nothing but sober, right-minded justice.

THE WORLD: FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 29, 1890.

Hopes of an Honorable Peace as a Result of Next Week's Hearing.

Both Parties to the Rallroad War Will Appear Eefore the Commissioners.

The decision of the State Board of Mediation and Aristration to come to New York next Tuesday and begin an investigation into the causes which led to the present strike on the New York Central, is regarded by the Knights of Labor as a great point gained, if not a complete victory, for the pripriples for which they have been so long and so earnestly contending.

Vice-President Webb has signified his intention to respond to the summons of the Board and submit to examination, if which is certainly an important concession in view of the position which be has heretofors taken with regard to the

An Evening World reporter talked with a number of strikers this morning and it was the unanimous opinion among them that the State Board of Arbitration may be mable to bring out the facts in the case for they claim that Vice-Presi-dent Webb will refuse to answer any and ill aussions pertaining to the discharge They are, however, more than satisfied that whatever the outcome of the inquiry will be the public will be able to indge the motives that have actuated them in ciamoring for an official investigation. Frequent consultations have been held luring the past two days by Vice-President Webb with F. Loomis, the General Comise of the New York Central, and it is stated on good authority that Mr. Webb, if called to appear before the Board, will refuse to answer certain questions, on the ground that there is no trouble at present on the road between the company and its

Whither they had been carried from Roine, for his own glorification, by Constanting the Great, who had filched them himself from the triumpolal arch of Trajan, who in turn had borrowed them, as seems probable, from the similar monument of his predecessor Nero.

Such are the humors of the world and whirliggs of time. Indeed, if every man had his own again, one might almost say there would be no Venice. The column of St. Mark, with its winged life. Which is winged life they are the security one more to St. Sabs. Ptolemats: the alabaster aupprorts of the inner canopy would flut their way back, msn say, to Solomon's temple: and even the moldering hody of the Evangelist itself, which reposes beneath its pall of gold and is well she to the community from which it was first fliched, the Coulie Christians of Alexandria.
